Achievement Preparatory Academy is a college-preparatory public charter school located in Southeast Washington, DC, serving students in grades 4 through 8. Achievement Prep's mission is to prepare students in grades four through eight to excel as high-achieving scholars and leaders in high school, college and beyond. Achievement Prep closes the achievement gap in education, levels the economic playing field and prepares all students for a future of college success through a rigorous college preparatory curriculum focused on the core academic areas of reading, writing, math, science and social studies/history. The school model is purposefully and strategically designed to combat the fourth-grade slump by beginning its enrollment at this critical educational stage and by implementing a rigorous academic program focused on literacy intervention, remediation and acceleration. Not only are high academics priority at Achievement Prep, through its Be the Dream character and leadership education program, Achievement Prep focuses on the development and practice of its DREAM (Determination, Respect, Enthusiasm, Accountability and Mastery) values.

ATA has designed a program to meet students' needs and to exceed their parents' dreams. The curricular mixture of academics, technology and the arts seeks to "propel" students beyond their economically depressed community. The arts form the foundation for building students' academic prowess as well as a way to connect students to the great artists and leaders who were nurtured within their community. The arts program includes dance, drama, visual art, and music appreciation, offering extensive access to both instrumental and vocal music, as well as film production and the role of technology within the arts industry. To meet its high expectations, ATA runs an extended, seven-and-a-half-hour school day and an extended school year. The basics, reading and math, are taught using a comprehensive approach to instruction which includes the Workshop Model and Balanced Literacy Approach. A multicultural social studies curriculum invites students to explore the history of ideas and different cultures. Current technology is integrated into various aspects of the academic program in an effort to close the technological divide to which these students are subject. Students have access to after-school tutoring, homework assistance and other extended learning opportunities. By design, the school program reflects the strengths of their heritage and creates many ways for students to express themselves and excel.

Our mission is to provide a free, exemplary early childhood educational program for all preschoolers, with and without special needs. Our developmentally appropriate, family and child-centered educational program nurtures students and expands their skills and abilities, building a foundation for life-long learning. At Bridges we believe in the value of an educational experience shared by students of different backgrounds, interests and abilities. An inclusive education is beneficial to all of the students who have the opportunity to participate. Inclusion builds compassionate relationships among students, develops self-esteem in individuals, and develops the awareness that everyone has strengths and challenges. Ideally 50% of our student body will be typically developing, and 50% will have special needs. Bridges is an inclusive preschool and pre-Kindergarten program for children ages 3-5 years old. First Academic Year of Operation: 2005-2006 Accreditation: No Currently in the accreditation review process will have a site review in May 2012. E.L. Haynes Public Charter School was founded in 2004 and has a program based on nationally-recognized best practices for advancing student achievement. At the core of the school's program is the unwavering belief that every student, regardless of race, socioeconomic status, or home language, is capable of reaching high levels of academic performance. In the 2011-2012 school year, E.L. Haynes will serve 805 students in grades Pre-School through 9. The school is the first year-round public school in Washington, DC and is named for Dr. Euphemia Lofton Haynes, the first African-American woman to receive a doctorate in mathematics, a teacher in the District of Columbia's school system for 47 years, and the first woman to serve as President of the District of Columbia Board of Education. E.L. Haynes was recently chosen from DC's 56 charter schools as the winner of Fight for Children's first-ever Quality Schools Initiative Award, and was also ranked 6th among a consortium of 99 charter schools nationwide in student achievement gains, as recognized in New Leaders for New Schools' Effective Practice Incentive Community. Founded in 2003, Eagle Academy Public Charter School (PCS) is Washington DC's first exclusively early childhood public charter school. Our school now educates children ages 3 years old through 2nd grade and will continue to expand to the 3rd grade in 2011. The school approaches each child through a holistic framework. We educate the socio-emotional development of the child with equal vigor and comprehensiveness as the academic portion. The primary school program focuses on math and science, and incorporates these in all of the subjects taught at Eagle Academy PCS. Eagle's instructional program is thematic and allows children to master the various academic skills and knowledge within the context of thematic, child-centered play. Children progress at their own rate and are ready for the next grade level upon graduation of Eagle Academy PCS.

Friendship opened the new Southeast Elementary Academy in August 2005 on the site of a former charter school. Friendship invested over fifteen million dollars for a major campus expansion that added 16 new classrooms, a gymnasium, student dining hall, interactive library and technology-rich SmartLab™ to transform the Southeast facility into a high quality educational environment. Today, Southeast students, parents and staff enjoy a vibrant and productive elementary school. Vaulted ceilings, bright light fixtures, hallways in red and ivory and classrooms outfitted with new textbooks and mobile computer laptop carts have created a learning laboratory where students and staff can thrive. The Southeast Elementary Academy campus is located in Ward 8 at 645 Milwaukee Place, Southeast. Howard University is committed to action that will help to prepare our youngsters for a rapidly changing economy and workforce that is so dependent on Science, engineering and technology. Therefore, it established the Howard University Middle School of Mathematics and Science, the first charter school in the DC Metropolitan Area to be established by a University. (MS)2 opened its doors in August 2005 to 120 sixth-graders who came from seven of the eight wards in the city. It is a technology-enabled school designed specifically for middle school students with the benefit of being located on a research university campus. It offers a rigorous core curriculum in Mathematics, Science, Social Studies, Language Arts and Spanish. It also provides a comprehensive supplemental program that includes an STEM Program specifically designed to demonstrate the variety of applications of mathematics and science. The STEM Program includes MathCounts, Sprint Solar Car Competition, Broadcast Media, Toy-Design Challenge, Chess Challenge, Robotics and Architecture Club. Each student is provided a laptop computer for use in the classroom and one for use at home. Every classroom has a specially designed high definition plasma display on which students and teachers can project their work. One of the most valuable components of the school program is its interns. These are undergraduate and graduate students from all of the Schools and Colleges at the University who are engaged to assist the faculty as teacher assistants, tutors and mentors. (MS)2 administrators and faculty enjoy a productive partnership with the leadership and professors of the University's School of Education. Now entering its seventh year of operation, the school has 300 students in grades 6-8. (MS)2 scholars have taken top honors in citywide events, such as the Citywide Science Fair, MathCounts Competition, the National Architecture Design Competition and the Scripps-Howard National Spelling Bee.

The IDEA Public Charter School is a career focused, academic, secondary school which prepares students (grades 7-12) for college or for careers in electronics, drafting, computer networking, or computer repair. IDEA was founded by a group of retired military instructors and civilian teachers. The school is based on the Department of Defense Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (JROTC) Career Academy model. IDEA provides advanced placement college preparatory courses in English, History and Calculus. The computer networking and repair classes can lead students towards national certifications. The electronics/Housewiring class provides students with training to become electrician apprentices. The autoCAD class prepares students for architecture, engineering, and drafting. IDEA's JROTC program includes participation in JROTC summer camp. Self-discipline, leadership training, and citizenship skills are addressed through the JROTC program. In addition to the career focused courses of study, the school relies on partnerships with employers in the industries. These business partners provide summer/parttime jobs and internships for students as well as providing mentorship, tutorial, instructional, and curriculum supports for teachers and students.

At Ideal , we take pride in our wonderful facilities as well as our experienced and devoted staff. Our schools are active busy places, not only for the students and staff, but for our families as well. As you walk through our hallways, work in classrooms or attend Parent-Teacher, the dedication, energy and involvement of the families in their children' education is obvious. Gazing at the parent board of "opportunities" family members are invited to join in the home-school-community partnership. Families are encouraged to share their talents, help in classrooms, serve on special interest committees, learn to read in their first language, or speak a second language, become elected representatives on a school advisory council, fundraiser with the school parent organization or bake, call, cut and paste at home. In the multipurpose room the Parent-Teacher-Association is planning the school's cultural events, a school advisory committee reviews the current budget, parents are cutting paper letters for the bulletin board, the school beautification committee and library committee brainstorm ideas. Additionally, at home, children are being read to and homework is being reviewed, children are being fed, bathed, hugged and tucked into bed.

The Inspired Teaching School will implement the philosophy and instructional approach of Center for Inspired Teaching. The school will be based on the following beliefs: Children are inherently good and have an innate desire to learn. Every child can be successful in school. Children’s energy unique talents and individuality are assets not obstacles. Every student possesses the ability to think critically learn and understand information and solve complex problems. Every student should spend their time in school engaged primarily in these kinds of activities. Primary methods of instruction will include inquiry-based methods and active learning approaches where the teacher serves as facilitator and coach to support student learning. Instruction will include an emphasis on social-emotional learning and classrooms will be student-centered with students working in small collaborative groups individually and through child-initiated play. First Academic Year of Operation: 2011-2012 Accreditation: No

Thurgood Marshall Academy is a law-themed public charter high school in Washington, DC's Ward 8, founded on US Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall's belief that all children have the right to a first-class education. Thurgood Marshall Academy's mission is to prepare students to succeed in college and to actively engage in our democratic society. As the first and only law-related charter school in Washington, DC, our goal is to help students develop their own voice by teaching them the skills lawyers have—the ability to solve complex problems, think critically, and advocate persuasively for themselves and their communities. To accomplish our mission, Thurgood Marshall Academy functions as both a school and a youth development organization by integrating a rigorous college-preparatory curriculum with in-school and after-school support programming such as academic tutoring, personalized mentoring, enrichment activities, a Summer Prep program for rising 9th graders, and one-on-one college guidance. To provide these supplemental programs, Thurgood Marshall Academy has developed a network of over 50 partnering organizations that provide financial and in-kind support and more than 200 volunteers. Throughout all of our academic and enrichment activities, we seek to engage parents and families with frequent communication and opportunities to be involved and to support their child's progress through a college-preparatory school. Thurgood Marshall Academy's curriculum and instruction are designed to prepare students for the rigor of a college education. Our school offers a college-preparatory curriculum rich in electives and advanced courses, but since the majority of our students enter the 9th grade with 5th or 6th grade reading and math skills, our college-preparatory coursework must also be coupled with intense remediation. Instructional planning is guided by a benchmark assessment program that is aligned to District of Columbia learning standards and the DC CAS assessment. The benchmark assessments make it possible for teachers to use a battery of data to differentiate instruction, measure mastery of standards, and modify teaching plans as necessary.

First Academic Year of Operation: 2001-2002

Accreditation: Yes, Thurgood Marshall Academy received accreditation from the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools on May 1, 2008. Our accreditation term ends on May 1, 2015.

The Tree of Life Community Public Charter School provides holistic academic and nonacademic programs and services for children and families of the District. The school offers small classes of 18-20 students for grade levels pre-kindergarten through eight. A content-rich, child-focused, culture-rich and relationship-focused curriculum model is utilized to achieve higher academic performance and develop productive behaviors and skills for one's contribution to the world community. The integration of academic content (and individualized instruction), particularly reading and literacy, within the context of stronger family/community services is emphasized. The school is free and open to the DC public.

The LAYC Career Academy Public Charter School helps young people 16-24 years of age prepare for college, pass the GED, and obtain career training in the fields of Information Technology and Healthcare. The school is built upon a belief that a high school credential is not enough, but that all youth need either a college degree or industry-recognized credential to build a good career. The Career Academy offers a college preparatory GED program where students will obtain a GED and achieve one of three outcomes before graduating: 1) Become certified Medical Assistants; 2) Become A+ Certified Computer Hardware Technicians; or 3) Earn at least 6 college credits. First Academic Year of Operation: Accreditation: ,
